Pass Christian Gas Station Robbed

Two men were in the Gulfport jail this week after trying to obtain gasoline without paying for it at a Pass Christian service station.

The two men, identified only as Hutchins and Taylor, were accused by station owner John M. David of Pass Christian of pulling a gun on him when he tried to collect for the gasoline.

Three youths who refused to identify themselves were also in the car. They calmed to be hitchhikers.

Hutchins and Taylor were picked up by State Highway patrolmen who were notified by David. As the car drove off J. C. Ellis, Jr. of Pass Christian managed to record the license plate number.

Registration Here First Since 1893

The first city registration in 60 years began here yesterday and 17,000 people are expected to turn out.

The last registration here was held in 1893 when the Hon. J. V. Toulme was Mayor and the Aldermen were E. Murtagh, C. C. Hart, L. Oliver, and Thomas Carver.

The first man (women didn't vote in those days) to put his name on the city books for voting was J. E. Saucier.

Mr. Saucier, since deceased, had a son, Alcine E., who is now serving the city as its chief of police.

The new registration will last three months, the city commissioners said. If any elections are held during that period, both registration books will be valid.

However, on December 31, the old books become null and void. Because the last registration was held so long ago, many of the women who registered after receiving the vote in Mississippi are listed under their maiden names, though long since married.

Other officers of the city in 1893 were George M. Maynard, marshal and L. Spetorne.

Sheriff Awaits Evidence On County Line

Sheriff John Egloff said yesterday he will accept evidence against the county line so-called "Juke joints" and present it for prosecution.

The Sheriff ordered the places, on the Hancock-Pearl River county line, closed at noon yesterday. Constable Eli Alsobrook left the courthouse to put the orders into effect.

Maj. Gen. W. P. Wilson, commander of the Mississippi National Guard, was enroute to Bay St. Louis at the time. He conferred Wednesday night with the Sheriff and District Attorney Boyce Holleman.

An indignation meeting of ministers, held at Picayune last Saturday, started the current drive against the places after it was revealed that investigators bought package liquor and beer at these places.

The ministers petitioned Gov. Hugh White, who sent Sheriff Egloff a letter demanding the places be closed or else the National Guard would be sent in to close them.

"I'm in favor of co-operating 100 per cent," the Sheriff said. "I've always been for padlocking those places. And if those investigators will give me the evidence they say they have, I'll do something about it."

District Attorney Holleman, whose job it is to prosecute any such cases, said, "I'll cooperate with Gen. Wilson 100 per cent."

STATE WOULD SUE FOR ANY MISSPENT COUNTY FUNDS

By JIM SHARP

(Echo Capital Correspondent)

Jackson, Miss., Oct. 1—Civil action against any members of the Hancock County Board of Supervisors who have made improper purchases will be taken if annual audits confirm findings of a special legislative committee probing the matter.

State Auditor William D. Neal, members of whose department have been assisting the Legislative Investigating Committee in its inquiry into Hancock purchases, predicted the civil action would be taken.

He said that in the event no effort is made by county or district authorities to recover any misspent funds that he will submit his findings to Attorney Gen. J. P. Coleman for action.

Coleman has stated that such action could come through District Attorney Boyce Holleman and that this should be the first method used.

But Coleman added that if no action were taken locally his office is empowered to act if apprised of questionable activities through findings of the state auditor.

The Legislature's Investigation Committee, according to a memorandum, State Sen. Stanton Hall, intends to go still deeper into the Hancock County matter, although some of its next immediate efforts will be in the direction of Wayne County.

Neal said that although two of its traveling auditors have given the committee information on which the conferees acted this work constituted only a pre-audit. He explained that he would not submit any material to the attorney general on the strength of such an inquiry. Instead, the auditor stated, he would wait until the audit has been completed for the fiscal year ending Wednesday, Sept. 30, and until all financial records for the year are completed on October 3.

He added, however, that "when we start on the county audits, Hancock will probably be among the first that we work on, because of the findings of the pre-audit and the work of the committee, Nov. 15."

It will be impossible to launch such an audit immediately after Oct. 31, he explained, because his staff has been flooded with audits of the school boards and other agencies whose fiscal year ended June 30 and these have not been completed.

It was pointed out that in cases of proven misspending of county funds both the supervisor involved and his bonding company could be made defendants in civil action.

While officials here agreed that the first attempts at any recovery of funds theoretically belong at the local level that such efforts in the past have not proven successful.

Officials, who would not be quoted by name, added that it is the principal reason that an attempt at recovery of the money involved would be made at the state level.

Mack C. Lewis' appeal following his murder conviction will take from a year to 18 months.

Lewis, a 21-year-old Negro serviceman, was found guilty here Wednesday of slaying New Orleans Contractor Kenneth Mason last April. It took the jury only 34 minutes to bring out the verdict, and Judge Lesley Grant sentenced Lewis to die in the electric chair Nov. 20.

But a technical point will bring months delay. Defense Attorney William Stewart said he will appeal "all the way" on the grounds that Lewis was extradited from Virginia to Louisiana, and that District Attorney Boyce Holleman never got the papers to extradite Lewis to Mississippi.

At the time of Lewis' arrest in Petersburg, Va., it was not known Mason was dead. So New Orleans detectives extradited the youth for car theft not murder. It was only after they were taking him back to New Orleans that he admitted killing the wealthy New Orleans contractor.

The first step in the appeal is to the Mississippi Supreme Court. This would automatically postpone the execution, and it would take four months before a decision is reached. The case then would go to the U. S. Supreme Court, and this would take perhaps a year or so more.

Even is Lewis wins his point, however, he probably would be faced with a new trial for murder.

The two-day trial was prosecuted by Holleman and Dan M. Russell, Jr. It took two days to get a jury, which finally consisted of Ray G. Lee, Willard Favre, Thomas Karl, Sr., Edward Estapa, Gaston Cuevas, Lavern Brogdon, Lovander Newcase, Carl Miller, James Kimmell, W. R. Ladner, Alvin McGathan and Vernon Cuevas.

The key to the trial was whether the confession Lewis signed could be admitted. Before a packed courtroom, he took the stand with the jury out of the room.

Under close questioning, he said he signed the confession because he was frightened. But he added that he was not threatened or abused. He did say that the New Orleans detectives, Allen Dupre and Lawrence Cassady, with him at the time, "go crazy" with him if he confessed.

But Sheriff John Egloff denied that any such promises were made, and Judge Grant admitted the confession. It was then read in court. In it, Lewis told how he shot Mason after robbing him of $35.

Following closing arguments and the judge's charge, the jury went into deliberation. It took only 30 minutes. Lewis was found "guilty as charged." He had no statement to make, and Judge Grant passed the death sentence. The execution would be carried out in the Hancock County jail with the state's portable electric chair.

Shaw Cites Board Action Before Probe

Johnson Shaw, president of the Board of Supervisors, said the Board took action three months ago on the large expenditures of wodd preservative in Beat One which are being investigated by the state Senate.

"It appears that personal feelings within the Board brought this matter, which I felt was under control, to the State committee. The Board, he said, disallowed part of the wood preservative expenditures of Supervisor Joseph Jones of Beat 1 before the subcommittee came to Bay St. Louis.

"Our cation has already been taken," he said.

600 New Gas Meters

The old meters will be sent to the factory for reconditioning and testing, Glover said.

TWO-TOUCHDOWN CORR LEADS BAY HIGH AGAINST PASS TONIGHT

"Touchdown Billy" Corr is expected to lead the attack when Bay High's football team goes after its second victory of the season tonight at Pass Christian. The game is homecoming for the Pass.

Corr scored two of the three touchdowns as Bay High rolled to victory against OLV at Pascagoula Saturday night. Ronnie Lander scored the other touchdown.

Coach Bennie Ray Nobles was enthusiastic after that victory. "I thought for an opener, the team played pretty well," he said. "There were no fumbles and that's unusual."

"It's a lighter-but faster team than we had last year."

Corr singled out End Charley Tartavouille and Center Donald Cole for their defensive work. Cole played throughout the game with an injured eye. He cut the eye again in practice Monday, but his doctor said he will be able to play against the Pass nevertheless.

Touchdowns in the second, third and fourth periods gave Bay High its victory Saturday.

Corr scored in the second period on a 45 yard pass from Terrell Randolph, and the Tigers were in front from then on.

OLV came back after the second half kickoff and marched down the field for its touchdown. La rensen-M. M.

Lander cut off right tackle and made for the sidelines for a 38 yard jaunt that put Bay High in front, 12-6.

E. P. Kirkpatrick reported catching an unusual fish for this area. Spiny Box Fish, which weighed about 3 1/4 pounds. Kirk says he caught the fish in his crab net in front of his house Tuesday.

Carl Roberts, manager of the Southern Bell T & T Co., of Gulfport is a frequent fisherman seen up Jordan River. He says he likes to catch just any old kind of fish.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hunter of Dallas, Texas and Mr. Jack Elliott of Gulfport, were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Russell Elliott on the yacht Champagne for a cruise and successful fishing trip. They wouldn't say just how many they caught.

Fishing in general over the weekend has been exceptionally good especially speckle trout fishing. Everyone fishing from the railroad bridge made good catches of trout running from 2 1/4 to 3 1/4 pounds. Theo. Tudary, Sr., got his share.

Registered for a two-week vacation and fishing at Hotel Reed are C. Crowley English, attorney for the Southern Bell T & T Co.; Captain Mackie Lewis, U. S. Navy, retired; Col. John A. Smith, U. S. Army, retired and O. H. Kirkland, insurance, all of Dallas, Texas. Of course the wives were with them. Several parties have been arranged by the visiting fishermen by their friends and the only ones not welcoming them will be the poor fish who don't know how to keep their mouths shut. Several good catches have been reported by the group. The lady folks are having a good time, too, they said.

An oldtimer with live bait, Lynn Rutherford was after the green trout up Bayou LeCros Sunday. Lynn always gets his quota.

The split season on doves closed Tuesday, September 29 and will reopen Dec. 27 and run thru January 10. This weekend several groups of local hunters reported fairly good shooting, regardless of the hot weather. Robert Genin, Jr., age 12, was out with his father, Bob Genin and with other members of his party killed the limit on several occasions. Bobby is both a good hunter and fisherman—a chip off the old block!

Others being out after the favored birds were Alden Mauffrey.

Teddy Heitzmann reported catching some red fish and speckles at Campbell's Bayou one day last week. Teddy said they were right near the land and hitting hard.

Pat McGinty says he can't figure out what happened to the soft crabs this summer. He said he couldn't make a good catch. Pat is tops in finding soft crabs.

Howard LeTissier our local hotel owner, declares he's not much of a fisherman, but he likes to eat them. He and the Misses are exceptionally fond of fresh water catfish - only the small ones - fingerlings as Howard calls them. Let's get him some!

Building . . .

The saw and hammer make familiar sounds around Bay St. Louis these days as building booms. Two school additions, the bridge work and a housing project are just part of the construction. Numerous businesses are also going up.

Teen Canteen Governing Board Picked For Pass

Mrs. Charley Atchley was elected chairman of the new governing board for the Pass Christian Teen-Age canteen.

This organization was started during the two seasons of school last year with Mrs. William Allen President; Mrs. Sam Jeffcoat vice-president. At that time the PTA backed it financially, and the City Council helped them by donating 20 bridge tables for the canteen's use.

At the meeting held the following committees and officers were chosen:

Mrs. Atchley, chairman.
Miss Catherine Purchner, acting secretary.

Finance: Rotary Club, Lions Club, Women's Civic League and Teen-Age Canteen.

Entertainment: St. Joseph's Mothers Club and Pass High PTA.

Inspection: The club in charge on any given night.

Publicity: Volunteer Fire Dept. and Beta Sigma Phi.

The clubs and civic organizations represented follow:

Blue Cross To Open Drive

Blue Cross - Blue Shield has opened a campaign drive in order to aid employees who work in plants hiring less than five people or unemployed persons, it was announced.

Improvement Association, Mr. and Mrs. John Parker, Pass High PTA, Mrs. Hillier, Supt. of Pass Christian Public Schools, W. S. Van Landingham, Beta Sigma Phi, Ellen Kemp, Pass High School Alumni, Mrs. Warren Adams, Chamber of Commerce, E. O. Hunt, Lions Club, Mayor Francis Hursey, Representatives of last year's Teen-Age Canteen, Mr. and Mrs. Grady Mangum, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Leserne, Mrs. Ruby Noto and Mrs. Van Landingham.

It was decided that each club represented would be in charge of the canteen on a specified night, usually Saturday night. They will be assisted by the canteen's entertainment committee.

The first meeting of the Teen-Age Canteen was Sept. 19. The St. Joseph Mothers Club sponsored this meeting, with Mrs. Geraldine Hines and Mrs. Ruby Noto chairmen; Mrs. Frank Kemp, Mrs. John David, co-chairmen; Mrs. Wittmann, Torgeson and Bob Leserne assisting.

New games were played the first part of the evening, with music the latter part. It was suggested that in their next meeting the group elect a president and vice-president from each school, setting up their own rules and form of government.

County Agent Notes

by HOWARD SIMMONS

Sweet potatoes can be harvested for early market as soon as roots reach marketable size. However, sweet potatoes for storage and for sale to canning plants should be allowed to reach their maximum yield.

The crop should be harvested before the first killing frost or freeze. Yellowing of the vines is a good sign that the sweet potatoes have stopped growing.

Sweet potatoes dug during warm fair weather when the soil is dry will be easier to cure, store and grade for market.

Care should be taken when digging not to cut or bruise the potatoes. The best digging implement is a large turning plow - either mule or tractor drawn, with a rolling coupler on the beam to cut the vines.

Handle sweet potatoes carefully and as little as possible from the time they are dug until they are marketed. Do not leave them on top of the ground more than one hour after they are dug out - never leave them out overnight.

Do not throw the sweet potatoes into piles. They should be at least partially graded, as they are picked up and then placed in hampers.

All fields should be grazed out following hay, corn or cotton harvest. In this way, farmers can get the benefit from extra grazing and at the same time save their permanent pasture areas from tramping.

October is the month for planting covers and legumes. It is also the time to plant clover or cereal for late fall and winter grazing. Fescue areas should be mineralized and not grazed until the fescue is six to ten inches tall.

Do not fertilize lespedeza - grass areas this month. Wait until next spring to do this. Fertilize now, the areas would be too favorable for clover to come in and push out the lespedeza.

National Fire Prevention Week begins October 4. It will be a good time for you to take stock around your farm and home to see what fire hazards you can remove. Here are some of the jobs you can do to help prevent fires.

1. Never use gasoline or kerosene (coal oil) or any other inflammable liquid to start fires in stoves, ranges or fireplaces.

2. Make frequent examination of stored hay to prevent heating and spontaneous combustion. Never store wet hay in barns. Repair roof and walls to prevent leaks in the barn.

3. Replace frayed or worn wiring. Replace or repair defective electrical appliances.

4. Build fire lanes around pastures and woods - especially between roads and pastures or woods - and between woods and pastures.

5. Remove rubbish regularly from the house, cellar, attic and closets. Do not let oily rags accumulate. Burn out of doors on still, damp days - preferably after 4 p. m.

Before selling your cotton find out what the loan price is. Unless you can get as much or more money selling your cotton, put it in the loan.

Here is how farmers can get their cotton in the loan - have the cotton sampled at the gin as soon as it is weighed. Your ginner will send the sample to the nearest Smith Dickey Free Classing Office. In a few days you will receive a green card giving the grade, staple and preparation of your cotton.

Take this green card with you to the local office to find out the value of your cotton. Then is the time to see what you can get for it on the market. Unless this is above loan value, it will pay to put your cotton in the loan. For details see your county agent.

Remember, knowing the value of your cotton before you sell may save you from $2.50 to $5.00 a bale.

Back - Scratching

We hear much about competition being the life of trade—and, of course, it does keep business on the tip of its toes. Do away with competition under the American Free Enterprise System and the superiority of our products and services would soon suffer.

But cooperation as well as competition has an influence upon the success of our economy. No individual ever traveled far alone and no community ever prospered unto itself.

It takes a certain amount of back-scratching to produce business. People who help each other really help themselves; you scratch my back and I'll scratch yours is a good old American custom and an effective policy wherever neighbors are so dependent upon each other.

So competition is not alone the life of trade; cooperation and reciprocity have a lot to do with it. The cultivation of good will and the stimulation of business is a reciprocal activity.

Wherever competition, cooperation and reciprocity exist, we do not have a dog-eat-dog economy. All things are possible to a people who work together and whether they do a community cultivates civic pride and attracts trade; by pulling together a community lifts itself above itself.

Whether you find a town or city taking its full commercial stride you will find there a lot of teamwork. Wherever you find a community slipping you will usually find internal strife.

Though competition is the life of trade, reciprocity is the spirit of it. The American System was formed as much out of cooperation as competition—and its taken a lot of back-scratchers to build the country and the community. As long as we promote constructive cooperation we will find more and more people anxious to do business with us. Make this a community of reciprocity and we will prosper together.

THE TEEN TATTLER

by Patsy Shadoin

Friday morning at S. J. A. "Freshman Day" started off with a bang, last week. All the freshmen showed up looking very cute and sleepy in their L.I.L. nites and nite caps, with their pillows and candle sticks under their arms. The most dignified Seniors in their paper graduation caps could be seen all over the campus giving orders to the lowly freshmen, right and left.

The day before freshie day each freshman was given a composition to write such as the "Love Life of a Worm," "Why Do Rivers Flow," "Why do we Love the Seniors?" and "How to be a Freshman." The day before freshie day each freshman was given a composition to write such as the "Love Life of a Worm," "Why Do Rivers Flow," "Why do we Love the Seniors?" and "How to be a Freshman."

At 2:30 that afternoon Kangaroo Court was held in the gym. Some of the very serious cases brought up were: the senior class vs. the freshman class for looking down on their tiny senior, Mug Blanchard; Senior Class vs. freshmen for eating the lunch of undernourished Senior Vicky Del Carmen. After all the freshman had received their verdict of guilty and carried out their sentences, refreshments were served to the Seniors and Freshies.

Home from college this weekend were Honorine Damborino, Willys Yates, Bill McDonald and Jimmy and Gary Gilmore from Southern and David Treutel, Donald Levy and John Weston from Tulane. Donald is studying pre-med and David is studying Law. John recently pledged D. K. E. fraternity and is on the freshman football team.

COASTING

By ANNE ORLEANS

Ethel and John Hicks back home after a wonderful three weeks in the Smoky Mountains. They particularly enjoyed the beautiful autumn coloring of the trees.

It was delicious. A former Orleanian that Mrs. Gamble had the pleasure of seeing in San Francisco was Phyllis Bush Wrightson. When Mrs. Gamble reached Santa Fe on her way home, Mr. Gamble met her there. They saw the famous Indian ceremonial dances. One of their hostesses was Dixie Milling Sherman, who has recently sold her place in Santa Fe and plans to return to New Orleans, her former home.

Carol Gordon, of New Orleans, over for a day this past week, visiting her mother, Mrs. W. Ray Gordon and his brother Jack Gordon at the Gordon home on South Beach.

Mrs. William A. Reiss Jr., who was Louise Carre, and her friend Mrs. Bemis, spending ten days with the Ed Carreres. When they left their homes in Sheboygan, Wisconsin, "it was already sold so they are enjoying our delightful weather and the outdoor activities, particularly the crabbing."

Old residents of Bay St. Louis and New Orleans helped the Dicks to find their comfortable cottage and to explore the mountain country. Mr. and Mrs. Richard F. Lawton lived on the Coast for nineteen years and now have built a home in the mountains. After Mr. Lawton retired from the insurance business, he and Mrs. Lawton had a wonderful trip to Europe and took many interesting colored films of the countries they visited. Today they share this trip with others by showing the films to schools and churches and telling interesting stories of their travels.

Bobby Boh went to Mobile last week for the L. S. U.-Alabama game.

Mrs. Harry Gamble still telling her friends of things that happened on her trip to the West Coast this summer from San Francisco and the Muir Woods.

One of the most interesting persons she saw on the trip was an old friend, Bertha Gardner, and several other friends in her San Francisco home, at a Chinese dinner where everything was prepared at the table in a copper brazier. Then different vegetables were used with shrimp, especially prepared meats, herbs and spices.

A Good Start

Hancock County's first "Dollar Days" were a success. Naturally, the merchants learned a great deal in their first effort, and they'll know more about what goods to place on sale next time.

The support from the people of the county was gratifying, and means that this promotion can continue to the advantage of all. It's a step forward—the only direction for Hancock County.

Why Thanks?

Your editors have been a little baffled the past two weeks by folks thanking us for printing news stories. Why thank us? That's what a newspaper is for, isn't it?

You don't open a grocery store in order not to sell groceries. And you don't begin a laundry in order not to wash clothes. So why run a newspaper to suppress news? We certainly won't. Sometimes the news is not pleasant. We'll print it anyway—no matter who is affected.

Furthermore, anyone has the opportunity to answer any news story in our paper, just as long as the libel laws are not violated. Not long ago we spent $10 to get telegrams delivered to a couple of men to inform them of an impending news story. Just so they might have the chance to answer it.

We charge our readers money for this newspaper. As soon as we collect their $2, we owe them one year's worth of news. They'll get it. That's what we're in business for.

Our Sympathies

We charge our readers money for this newspaper. As soon as we were, of course, thankful that the storm veered away from the Mississippi coast. But we should pause and think of the folks in Florida who got the force of the blow.

You'll remember the work of the Red Cross when the hurricane hit here. The Red Cross is helping those in Florida, too. It's something to remember during the next drive.

JAMES CRUMP'S RICE FIELD PRODUCES 68,700-LB. YIELD

In the middle of this fishing of 162 pounds for Magnolia, and $8.00 a barrel of 162 pounds for our Xenith. This price compares very favorably with the price they are getting for the same quality rice produced under irrigation in Louisiana.

"Our production, however, will fall a little lower than they produce in Louisiana under irrigation due to the fact as stated above we should have planted 100 pounds to the acre whereas we only planted 75."

"Growing upland rice is nothing new to this section—the old timers who migrated to the coastal sections of Georgia and the Carolinas brought their seed and rice hullers with them and planted patches of rice."

"There are still scattered through this section of the country mills that hull the rice for farmers who continue to plant small patches. We are having several hundred pounds of our rice husked, not polished, we prefer it."

"It makes excellent jambalaya, trying rice, Italian rice, and equally as good as polished rice for other purposes. It contains a good deal more vitamins than polished rice. As soon as I get some of this rice back from the mill I will be glad to send you a sample to try it."

Buyers' Mart

Russell Maurigi of 312 St. John St. makes cakes. This you may know if you've been to a big club meeting lately or attend a banquet and admired the beautifully decorated cake commemorating a special occasion.

These jobs resulting in the tiered cakes and the several hundred petit fours are Maurigi's usual orders. But the pleasant man who sometimes gets up at two or three in the morning to start his birthday cakes orders knows no minimum.

Did you ever get in a pinch and need a cake for a sudden influx of guests? If you call the Maurigi man at 407-R during the evening, he can have your cake ready by early the next morning.

He doesn't like to promise, but many times he's been able to ready a cake ordered in the morning by mid-afternoon. The most caller-for cakes we have tried and think you could do much worse if you have no time, talent nor inclination for cake-making.

There is a lemon cake made with a pie-filling type icing. We ordered the nine inch square which cost $2.50 and lasted over a long, hungry weekend.

The favorite around here is an eleven-inch circle fudge cake, which Maurigi topped with yellow roses for no special reason at all.

He makes, too, a devil's food cake, a vanilla cake (very fine with a chocolate icing) a silver cake and an angel cake. Fruit cake season is coming up and Maurigi will supply you with this commodity for 50c a pound. He calls his fresh orange cake a specialty.

Here are the standard prices for these fresh-from-the-kitchen, old-fashioned cakes: 250; 11-inch circles; $3; 11-inch squares, $4; 14-inch circles $5; Petit fours fifty cents a dozen, with a minimum order here of two dozen. 25c cents on all cakes. The same applies to devil's food cakes. These two require more materials and more expense on his part, he explains.

One idea, before we pass on the other Maurigi talents: At the W. A. McDonald and Sons Store, the employees keep a check on birthdays and when one of them ticks off another year, the hat goes round and Mr. Maurigi bakes a cake for a little birthday party to be held at three in the afternoon right in the store.

But you like pies maybe. Cream pies just off the oven rack in Russell's kitchen are $1.50. He hasn't been making many pies lately, but his customers' blarneyings have won him over again. Fruit pies here cost $1.25. Pecan pies are $1.50. The pie size is nine inches. Maurigi does catering on special orders. For your wedding or your very plush occasion, in addition to a cake or petit fours, he will make small, dainty sandwiches, with colored bread and tinted filling (if you desire).

For a little something different, you might try a catering order for a spaghetti dinner—the price depends on the number to be served.

Pizza is a Maurigi specialty, but the ingredients—especially anchovies—are hard to find, says Maurigi, so he prefers to accept orders for pizza only if you can supply the filling ingredients, and plan to order that spongy, special pie crust unbaked from this cook of all goodies.

Another idea. In Italy, Maurigi says, tiny portions of hot pizza are served as canapés.

There's a sign in front of the Maurigi home, so don't rush by.
